Last Updated: April 21, 2026 | Read Before Trading

1. General Risk Warning

1.1. Trading binary options and other financial instruments involves substantial risk of loss and is not suitable for all investors. You should carefully consider whether trading is appropriate for you in light of your financial condition and risk tolerance.

1.2. You could lose some or all of your invested capital. Do not invest money you cannot afford to lose.

1.3. Past performance is not indicative of future results. No representation is being made that any account will or is likely to achieve profits or losses similar to those shown.

2. Binary Options Specific Risks

2.1. Binary options are high-risk, speculative financial instruments. The outcome of each trade is binary — you either receive a predetermined payout or lose your entire investment amount.

2.2. The fixed payout structure means that potential losses can exceed potential gains on individual trades.

2.3. Short-term trading (30 seconds to 5 minutes) carries additional risk due to market volatility and price fluctuations.

2.4. Market conditions can change rapidly and without warning, potentially resulting in significant losses.

3. Market Risks

- Prices of financial instruments can be highly volatile and unpredictable
- Economic events, political developments, and natural disasters can cause sudden price movements
- Liquidity conditions may vary, potentially affecting trade execution
- Weekend and holiday gaps can result in prices opening significantly different from previous closing prices
- Currency exchange rate fluctuations may affect the value of your investments

4. Technical Risks

4.1. Internet connectivity issues, hardware failures, or software malfunctions may prevent you from executing trades or managing your positions.

4.2. The Company is not responsible for losses resulting from technical failures beyond our control.

4.3. Price feeds may experience delays or interruptions during periods of extreme market volatility.

5. Psychological Risks

5.1. Trading can be emotionally challenging. Fear, greed, and overconfidence can lead to poor decision-making.

5.2. Trading addiction is a real risk. If you find yourself unable to stop trading despite consistent losses, please seek professional help.

5.3. Never trade with money you need for essential living expenses, debt payments, or other financial obligations.
